Former Experience:

Bachelor's degree in Politics and Administration, East China Normal University (2022)

Master's degree in Chinese Philosophy, Zhejiang University (2025)

Research Focus: History of Political thought and theories, Modern Chinese Intellectual History, Modern New Confucianism

I received my Bachelor's degree in Politics and Administration at East China Normal University and Master's degree in Chinese Philosophy at Zhejiang University. Now, I'm a doctoral student under Prof. Axel Schneider's guidance. Because of my former educational experience, my academic interest focuses on history of political thought and modern Chinese intellectual history, especially the cultural conservatives in modern China like New Confucians. My master thesis discussed Tang Junyi 唐君毅's reception, interpretation and reflection on Hegel's

Philosophy, which could be seen as a concrete study about how modern Chinese philosophers accepted German philosophy and compared it with Chinese traditional philosophy. During my doctoral learning, I will continue to study Hsiao Kung-chuan 蕭公權's political thought comprehensively, by explaining his understanding of modern Western political theories and Chinese traditional political thought.
